Bail for paedophile in sex register inquiry

A convicted paedophile arrested on suspicion of failing to sign the sex offenders' register has been released on bail.

Tuan Quang Ho, 25, was detained in south London following information received from an appeal in the News of the World.

A Scotland Yard spokesman says he has now been bailed pending further inquiries.

Police have thanked the News of the World and its readers for helping to find him and the newspaper says it is "delighted" its campaign has produced such instant results.

Tuan Quang Ho was convicted in May 1997 at Kingston Crown Court of two counts of indecent assault on a 14-year-old girl.

He was released in December 1997 and initially registered to an address in south east London, but appeared to have left in May this year.
